Courses that may be repeated for additional credit towards degree completion

PURPOSE

Defines the conditions which allow a student to repeat a course for additional credit towards degree completion.

SUMMARY

Students may repeat a course as often as they wish. However, only in certain circumstances may credits from a repeated course be applied towards degree completion.

STANDARD

1. Certain classes may be repeated for additional credit towards degree completion as specified in the catalog. If a catalog course description does not include information that specifies the course may be repeated and credits applied, then credits from repeating the course may not be applied towards degree completion.
2. Variable credit courses may be repeated and credits applied to degree completion only up to the number of credits allowed for the class.
3. Courses that may be repeated for additional credit towards degree completion are non-challengeable.
4. CWE courses may be repeated and credits applied. Specific procedures, limitations, and conditions are specified in the "Cooperative Work Experience" standard in this manual.

(NOTE: See 471A for a list of courses that can be repeated for degree completion.)
